

Well Cell Online Community

Documentation

A walk through for beginners

About

An online community is a group of people with common interests who use the Internet ,(web sites, email, instant messaging, etc), to communicate, work together and pursue their interests over time.

Summary

In this documented tutorial we will proceed through steps and see how to register, login, logout, reset a password and a few more basics tasks. If you are thinking to join our community for the first time this is the right place to seek advice.

This tutorial is called “Basic” as it requires basic technical knowledge and gives basic information that can be easily apprehended even from the less tech savvy of us. Subsequent tutorial will expand your knowledge in various other functions of our online community, these will include topics such as interacting with other community members and productively using the various tools that we provide to each member so as to experience the very best our Online Community can offer.

The Basics

WELL CELL

Basics

Register

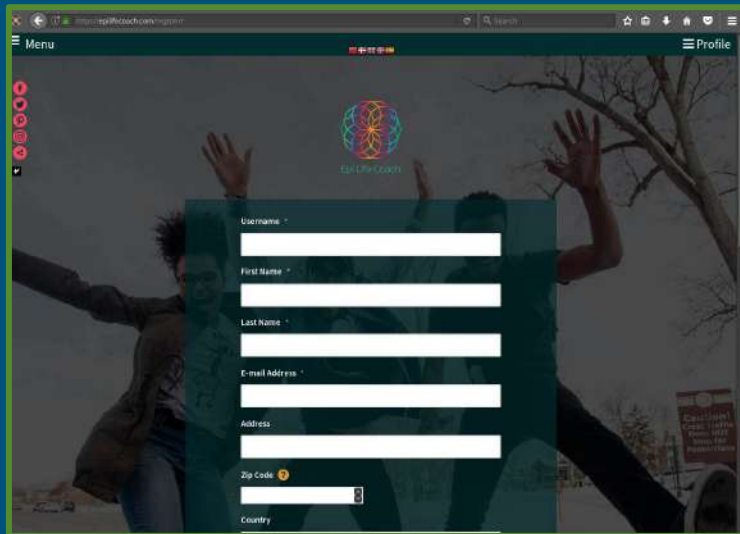

The register page contains the default registration form and is the page you should visit if you haven't signed up as a member. The default registration form includes fields such as: username, first name, last name, e-mail address, password (with confirm password turned on).

Login

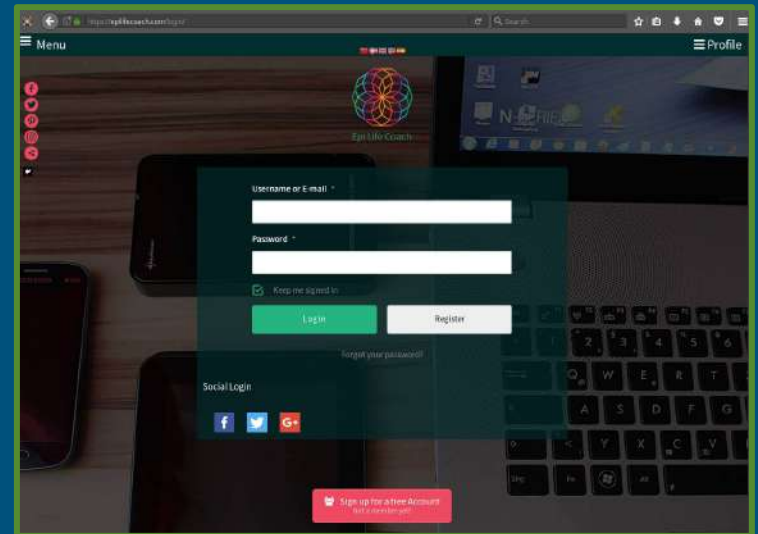

The login page contains the default login form and is the page you should visit so that you can login to your profile account. The default login form includes the fields: username or email and password. You can also login with your social account, (Facebook, Twitter, Google).

Profile

The user Profile page is the page that displays each user's profile and contains the profile form for you to fill with your details and bios so that other members can see who you are and what you like. Members can only view other Member's profiles via this page and this can only happen after your account has been verified by our Administrators.

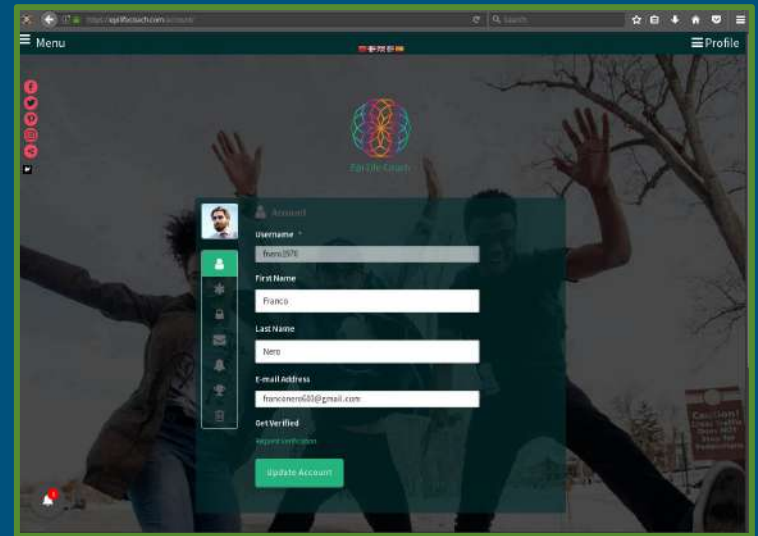

Account Management

The account management page is the page that contains the account settings for each user. Here you can change all various settings that control: Privacy, insite notifications, web notifications. From here you can also reset your password and even delete your entire account. Finally you can also request to be verified, still from here.

To visit your profile page, login or simply visit:

To change your account settings simply visit:

<https://well-cell.com/user/account/>

Basics

Members Directory

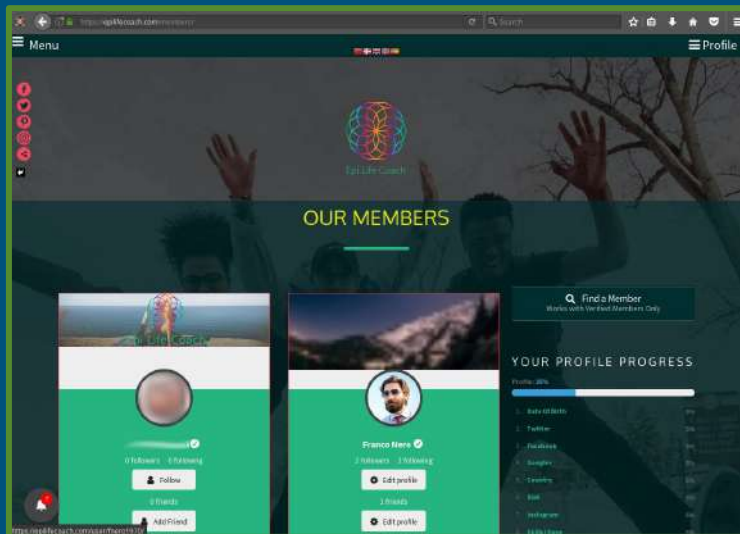

The members page displays the default members directory which is a list of all the members on our site and community. You can ask to be a verified member in order to use this feature. From your account settings you can decide whether you want to appear into the member directory or not.

Members Search Engine

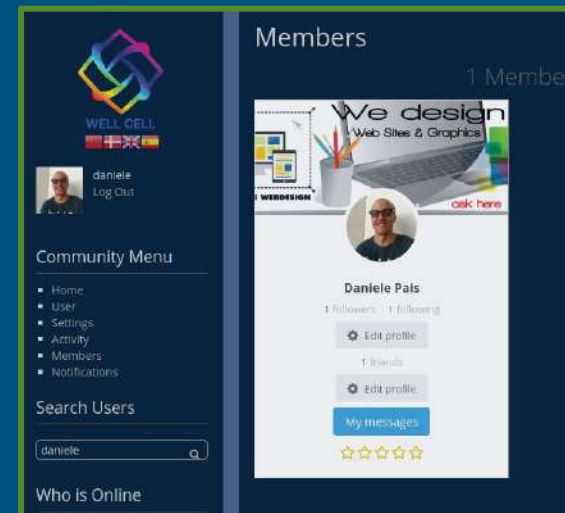

From your profile page or from the members directory, verified members can search for other members profiles and read their bios, follow them, request to become friends. Upon acceptance to your request, you can chat with them and send private messages too.

Logout

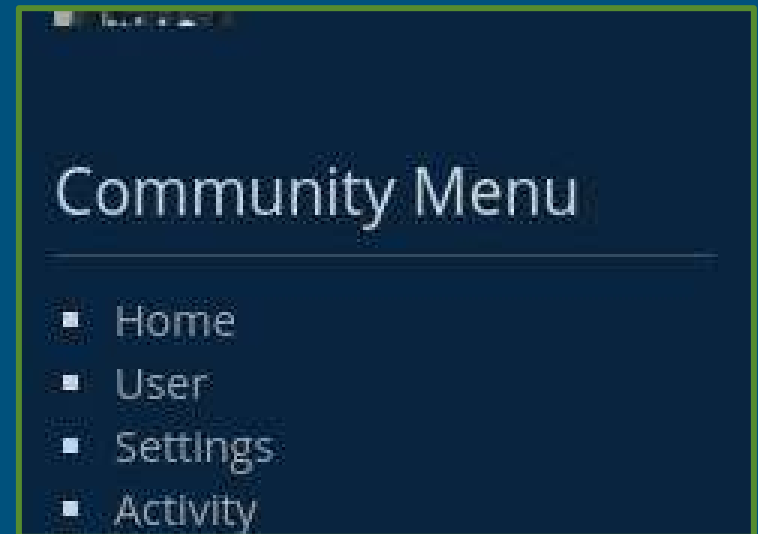

The logout page is the page that will trigger a logged in user to logout of our site. Once triggered the logout function you will be redirected to the home page. The logout function can be accessed from the left top profile widget next to the profile photo thumbnail.

Password reset

The password reset page allows users to reset their password if they forget what their password is.

To do so you can reach the advanced management area by clicking on the link "Settings" on your community menu.

To reset your password simply visit:

<https://well-cell.com/social-account/>

Conclusion

In this first tutorial we have covered the basics of how to get access and change the basic settings of your account.

Our next tutorial will guide you through the many options and actions you can take from within your profile.
